FOREWORD.

MARTIN SLUMBERS
Chief Executive, The R&A

It is my pleasure to introduce you to this toolkit, which is a critical document as the golf industry seeks to safeguard our sport for the future by creating the conditions to attract more women and girls.

I hope you find this an informative and useful manual, representing industry best practice and linking to a suite of assets and Resource Portal, all of which are designed to help clubs and facilities approach the idea of cultural change.

This crucial step is but the first in an ongoing journey of support which The R&A, the national associations and The PGA are committed to, providing all affiliates with the advice and materials they need to join us in tackling this critical issue in the future.

The Women in Golf Charter has been created to inspire an industry-wide commitment and conversation with the ultimate goal of enabling more women and girls to maximise their potential at all levels of the sport. #FOREeveryone creates a more accessible narrative behind which the golf industry can unite and through which existing and prospective golfers can engage.

This campaign, we truly believe, can help us change the face of golf across the globe, for the betterment of our sport. I hope you can join us in harnessing its power to change the game forever. #FOREeveryone

WHAT WE WOULD LIKE FROM YOU.

This toolkit represents step one in a long journey The R&A, national associations and The PGA are embarking on together.

While this campaign has been designed to offer long term support, we would love you to initially perform five simple actions.

There’s a lot of information in here, but it represents the most current best practice advice and research the industry has to offer, all in one package.

READ THE TOOLKIT

We want as many clubs as possible to come with us on this journey. Registering your interest on the Resource Portal will allow us to stay in regular conversation and for updates on advice, assets and content to be provided regularly.

REGISTER INTEREST

CONSTRUCT YOUR OWN STRATEGY

Once you have set your strategy, start using the rest of the assets provided to help you deliver it.

USE THE ASSETS

We want your feedback. This campaign is here to stay, and we want to know how we can make it work for everyone connected to the sport. Use the contact details on page 49 to give us your suggestions on how we can make it even better. #FOREeveryone

THE WOMEN IN GOLF CHARTER: AN INTRODUCTION

The Women in Golf Charter was launched to increase women and girls participation in golf and to encourage more opportunities for women to work in the golf industry.

This toolkit has been inspired by that commitment and provides clubs and facilities with the support and materials they require to develop a more inclusive culture. Simple-yet-impactful changes in the way we operate and communicate will allow golf to strike a better gender balance, change perceptions and increase participation.

This guide will give golfing facilities of all shapes and sizes the knowledge and tools to unite with other industry stakeholders behind one common cause. As shown in the following pages, change does not have to be costly, and even small adjustments can build a brighter future.

THE OPPORTUNITY

36.9 Million

Latent female golfers around the world

Takeaway: With the right offer, some of these golfers could join your club.

$35 Billion

Potential value of latent female golfers worldwide to the industry

Takeaway: The opportunity for your club to generate added revenue is significant.

8.5 Million

People in the UK between the ages of 15-64 interested in taking up golf

Takeaway: There are women near you who are interested in playing.

5%

Golf currently only appeals to 5% of women in the UK

Takeaway: Without a change in perceptions, a challenging future may lie ahead.

WHAT IS GENDER BALANCE?

Gender balance or gender equality is a challenge for organisations globally. In many areas of public and private life, women face greater challenges than their male counterparts and golf is no exception.

Fewer than 1 in 4 golfers globally are women and the golf industry is male-dominant. Striking a better gender balance will not only benefit the golfing economy by introducing more players to the game, it will bring diversity to the workforce, boost productivity and expand the talent pool.

While many participation schemes do exist, without cultural change their impact will be diluted. Balance means addressing conditions which are a barrier to equality. At times this may mean going even further when presenting opportunities to women and girls than we would men and boys.

Industry-wide collaboration and sharing of knowledge will bring about change in the quickest way possible. This is the very purpose of this toolkit and the #FOREeveryone campaign.

RESOURCES TO BE MORE FEMALE FRIENDLY.

FUTURE PROOFING

Until most recently, the number of registered golfers had declined in each home nation, as competition for consumer free time and attention increases. A more welcoming environment for women and girls golfers and conditions to retain them could see participation continue to grow.

ENHANCED REPUTATION

Stereotypical perceptions of golf still exist and are demoting to the sport. With adoption of new measures, golf can build a more modern image, unlocking more interest and commercial benefits as a result.

HEALTHIER DECISION MAKING

Research shows that companies with greater gender balance at boardroom level exhibit superior decision-making. Encouraging more females into positions of authority within the golf industry will encourage better business performance.

INCREASED REVENUE

Stereotypical perceptions of golf still exist and are demoting to the sport. With adoption of new measures, golf can build a more modern image, unlocking more interest and commercial benefits as a result.

SPEAK TO THE FAMILY DECISION MAKER

Women are often the key decision makers when it comes to how families spend their leisure time and money. Increasingly holding the purchasing power, it is important golf speaks to an audience of women and girls more than ever.

BECOME PART OF A MOVEMENT

Given that women’s sport is now more visible than ever, thanks to events such as the FIFA Women’s World Cup, Olympic Games and Solheim Cup, it is important golf presents itself as a viable option within this growing movement.

WOMEN AND GIRLS IN GOLF – CURRENT STATUS.

The R&A’s Women’s, Girls’ and Family Participation in Golf: An Overview of Existing Research (2018) highlighted areas of consideration for the golf industry to attract more women and girls to the sport. Below are its key findings:

PARENTS AND FAMILY CULTURE

Parents are the chief factor underpinning families’ likelihood to play golf. These decisions are made based on perceived benefits to health, education and social wellbeing.

THE SOCIAL ASPECTS OF GOLF

Forming friendship groups is vital to continued participation. Buddy schemes help new participants integrate and opportunities to socialise are a particular driver for women and girls.

THE EXPERIENCE ECONOMY

Consumers are now more likely to price experiences over possessions and memories over memorabilia. The experience is now the product clubs and facilities are selling.

Stereotypical perceptions of golf still exist and are demoting to the sport. With adoption of new measures, golf can build a more modern image, unlocking more interest and commercial benefits as a result.

Latent female golfers worldwide are estimated to be worth $13 billion to the industry. As women and girls make up only 24% of all active golfers (and just 15% in GB&I) there is an appreciable untapped revenue to compete for.

THE ROLE OF WOMEN

The success and visibility of role models is a motivating factor for people to play the game, particularly those who have never played before.

SETTING UP FOR SUCCESS

Priority parking, childcare provision, play areas, family-based coaching and open days, subsidised passes for families and the quality of facilities are some of the items high on the priority list for families today.

TIME AND COST

Families today tend to pursue less time-intensive and more accessible leisure activities. Generally, the modern consumer is seeking a more casual, less challenging and less expensive pursuit than traditional golf.

THE EVOLUTION OF GOLF

Golf has a difficult task of maintaining its heritage while evolving to meet modern consumer demands. This has created demand for a greater variety of golf clubs playing non-traditional formats of the game.
CASE STUDY

ENVILLE GOLF CLUB, ENGLAND.

Blessed with a prime heathland location on the edge of the Black Country, Enville Golf Club has traditionally boasted a thriving women’s section. Particularly in the 1990s and early 2000s, the Staffordshire venue enjoyed notable numbers.

Yet, as experienced by many clubs in the UK, a decline in females set in, mostly due to age demographic and new blood not coming in to fill the fairways. It was a problem to address. Being previously hosted Open Regional Qualifying From 2007-11, another event ultimately acted as a catalyst to transform their women and girls’ sections.

“We were lucky enough to play host to the Girls’ Amateur in 2017 which really engaged interest in, and particularly my interest in, women’s participation in the sport,” admits Heather Mulley, the club’s general manager. “It was truly inspiring to see girls from all over the world.”

Passions ignited, Mulley and her team set about their work quickly and effectively.

WHAT DID ENVILLE DO?

• From 2018, the club set up a Ladies Academy. One or two-year membership of the Academy was offered, including lessons and use of the practice facilities. All equipment was provided, with a ‘mentor’ from the ladies’ section to offer encouragement on the course and ease any nerves.

• Building on this, they thresholded golf to younger players with the launch of its Girls’ Golf Rocks scheme. The scheme is designed to give girls the opportunity to play golf and make friends in a social environment. The scheme is open to girls aged 7-11 and is free to participate.

• Enville also joined the Women in Golf Charter, to promote women’s golf to young people, and, crucially, to enhance the women’s section. The club agreed to give the Women in Golf Charter a minimum of five years’ of commitment and strategic importance.

• With two 18-hole courses to utilise, Mulley adds, “Golf can be a challenge and we recognised the huge leap from having lessons or using a driving range to going out on the course or becoming a member of a club. We therefore set up a new set of blue tees on our Highgate course to ease beginners into the game.”

WHAT HAS THE WORK ACHIEVED?

• Seven beginner Academy players joined as full members.

• Junior girls increased from 6 to 14 within three weeks of running Girls Golf Rocks.

• Two women joined other clubs to help grow the sport.

• Other family members have also joined – including four full members (husbands).

As they continue to actively grow female golf, key learnings from their experiences include:

• Listen and be approachable – mentoring partnerships have been key to the success of Enville’s Academy.

• Provide a welcoming environment and make amendments to dress rules to accommodate guests in the clubhouse.

• Use social media to promote activities regularly.

• Get involved in and around your club and visit local schools to promote schemes.

• Use of resources such as posters and tailors to suit your club where necessary.

Mulley, the GCMA 2019 Manager of the Year, offers the last words: “And get your ladies’ section on board – our section was fantastic!”

“Our women’s section has been invigorated and enthusiasm has really increased.” Heather Mulley
INTRODUCING #FOREeveryone.

While the Women in Golf Charter provides the impetus for change, #FOREeveryone represents a creative approach to unite the industry behind a single campaign.

#FOREeveryone will encourage facilities and organisations to sign-up to the Women in Golf Charter and work towards the achievement of their own Charter Commitments. It will also provide the promotional assets so clubs can communicate their intended changes with their members and start a conversation within their own facilities, and eventually, begin using to attract more women and girls.

#FOREeveryone is a long-term project, and our first goal is giving clubs the chance to make internal changes where required. If this means your club doesn’t start using assets to speak to external consumers or even members right away, that’s OK. Focus on building an achievable strategy with progress as its driving force.

THE SUPPORT

1. Create a single brand identity to unite golf’s efforts to get more women and girls into the game
2. Provide a suite of materials which clubs can use to organise and promote their own activities
3. Allow for connected campaign promotions across The R&A, national associations’ and The PGA’s social channels, websites and databases
4. Generate support from the wider golf industry which, in turn, communicate #FOREeveryone and the opportunities being created to a much wider audience
5. Generate exposure with media and influencers in support of the drive to get more women and girls into golf with a consumer campaign, set to launch in 2021

BECOMING A CHARTER SIGNATORY.

Signing up to The Women in Golf Charter is an important step in fully integrating your activity with the #FOREeveryone movement, allowing you to leverage the widespread exposure it will create. As a continued support mechanism, it will ensure you are provided with the necessary ongoing support and materials as you work towards your goals.

Signing up to the Charter and becoming part of the #FOREeveryone movement is simple:

1. Once you have finished reading the toolkit, visit the #FOREeveryone Resource Portal
2. Register your interest in becoming a Women in Golf Charter signatory
3. Registration will provide you with access to further assets, which you can use to start building your own strategy
4. In the meantime, The R&A will communicate your interest to your national association who will be in touch to confirm your Charter commitments and offer further assistance in planning your #FOREeveryone activity
5. Once received, display your Charter Signatory Certificate with pride to inform all of your members

Unsure your club is ready to make commitments as a Women in Golf Charter Signatory? You can still register to find out more, get access to more #FOREeveryone materials and we’ll put your national association in touch to discuss the opportunity further.

WHY SIGN UP?

1. Become part of the #FOREeveryone movement which will signal your commitment to the women and girls game
2. Join some of golf’s leading organisations which are already supporting the Women in Golf Charter
3. Receive access to full suite of assets which will allow you to build your own #FOREeveryone activity
4. Start attracting more women and girls, and smash your Charter Commitments
EXAMPLES OF CHARTER COMMITMENTS.

We would encourage all clubs to choose Charter commitments which are realistic and most appropriate for them. However, below are some examples of commitments current Women in Golf Charter signatories have found to be most impactful.

- Membership which means equal access for men and women
- Making peak tee times equally available to all members
- Making the switch from gender-based tees to ability-based tees
- Increasing female representation on your Board and/or Committee (achieving 30%)
- Supporting the National Women and Girls Golf Week campaign
- Providing on-course toilet facilities for females
- Increasing visibility of female and family-oriented imagery within club communications
- Committing to increasing female membership within your business plan
- Encouraging more young people to be involved in the running of your club

RESOURCE PORTAL.

All assets mentioned within this toolkit to help you plan your own #FOREeveryone activity are easily downloaded via the Resource Portal.

There you will find guidance on how best to use these assets, brand guidelines and logos.

If you are not yet signed-up to The Women in Golf Charter, you will be given the opportunity to register your interest in doing so upon accessing the Resource Portal.

All current signatories are listed there, so log-on and check out how others have committed to the Charter and are working to improve access to the game for women and girls.

ACCESS THE PORTAL
CHARTER CHAMPIONS.

WHAT IS A CHARTER CHAMPION?

It is recommended that each club designates a ‘Charter Champion’, a facilitator or coordinator who, assisted by others, holds responsibility for integrating the Women in Golf Charter at club level. This individual would be the key point of contact with The R&A and national associations, and would take the lead on your #FOREeveryone activity.

RECRUITING A ‘CHARTER CHAMPION’

‘Charter Champions’ can be male or female club officials, such as juniors or ladies’ organiser, club secretaries, willing volunteers, or even your PGA Pro. Your Charter Champion may already be active in driving your club’s women and girls strategy.

As well as being able to draw inspiration and use the materials provided within this toolkit, each ‘Charter Champion’ will be invited to feedback to The R&A directly, sharing success stories and learnings to be utilised by others seeking to make similar improvements.

WORKING WITH YOUR CHARTER CHAMPION:

1. Use Charter Champion Recruitment Assets to identify someone for the role
2. Work with your Charter Champion in signing up to The Women in Golf Charter and submitting your Charter Commitments
3. Support your Charter Champion in arranging activities which meet your Charter Commitments
4. Register your Charter Champion via the Resource Portal so we can communicate directly

THE ROLE OF CHARTER CHAMPION

1. Dedicated person responsible for implementing a club or facility Women in Golf Charter Commitments
2. A responsible individual who can own and drive the women and girls strategy
3. A new role to facilitate the increase in activity required to attract more women and girls through new events and marketing initiatives
4. A singular contact for external or internal enquiries, someone to own communications relating to women and girls
5. Will work with The R&A and national associations to meet Charter Commitments

SUPPORTED BY WINNING IN WALES.

CASE STUDY

Two clubs in Wales have reaped the benefits of a renewed focus on women and girls’ activity.

When Martin Stevens arrived at Llanishen Golf Club in early 2016, it had been almost three years since a lady joined as a member, and nearly two years for a junior girl. Fast forward to the present day and it’s a very different story.

“The committee were very open to my ideas to drive this area of membership and we were one of the pioneers of Wales Golf’s New2Golf scheme,” recalls Stevens, the club’s manager.

Focusing on six-week coaching programmes from 2016-18, the club took in 26 new women on full membership. In offering longer membership (e.g. 18 months for the price of 12), the longevity has enabled the ladies to feel part of the club. The vast majority remain members now, with informal six-hole competitions currently popular.

Llanishen – situated north of Cardiff – have also targeted younger players and in 2019 launched the GirlsGolf Wales scheme, in conjunction with the continued support of Wales Golf. From visiting two local schools for initial taster sessions, 14 girls took part and six came in as members. In lowering the junior membership age down to six, a further four girls joined.

In 2020, their work has continued with the introduction of a ‘Pathway to Handicap’ scheme, allowing juniors to earn different coloured wristbands as they progress towards obtaining a handicap.

Also situated near Cardiff, Radyr Golf Club started the New2Golf programme in 2019 with the aim of introducing more female golfers. Equality plays a large part of their culture, with all but six competitions being open to female players and a proportional split on the club’s committee. In 2020, the club also appointed Michelle Griffiths as the first female club captain in its 118-year history.

Stuart Finlay, club manager, said, “We set a clear female pathway, which included a taster session led by club staff and the committee, follow-on lessons to provide ladies with the skills and confidence, and finally our trial membership called ‘100 Holes’.”

The innovative membership allows those in the beginner programme to pay as many holes as they wish up to 100 Holes. They can then choose another 100 holes or progress to nine-hole membership. The programme has been supported by the ladies’ section through playing mixed, organizing social events and helping newcomers secure their first handicap.

Over the last 12 months, 30 ladies have been involved in the 100-hole scheme and, in recent months, six became nine-hole members and two full playing members.

“We have also picked up new junior members from those ladies that have attended the club” Stuart Finlay

“The additional benefit is people come from the local area and visit the club to use our facilities, eat and drink or meet with friends outside of the beginner programme,” added Finlay. “We have also picked up new junior members from those ladies that have attended the club and have further impact with parties and special occasions.”

With Radyr also operating a more relaxed approach to dress code, it mirrors the Llanishen’s “very much fun and friendly.”
UNDERSTAND YOUR STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES.

Knowing how well your club is set-up to attract and retain more women and girls is an important place to start your #FOREeveryone activity planning. Understanding how you compare to your competitors is equally essential before you can start making changes. In order to prioritise, an internal audit is recommended.

1. S.W.O.T. ANALYSIS
   Do you know the strength of your club offer? Find out by reviewing the physical, operational and social elements of your club or facility. This will include reviewing your website and contact points (do they truly reflect what kind of club you want to be?).

2. MARKET BENCHMARKING
   Do you know how you compare to other facilities in your area, or those who do best to attract women and girls? By understanding how you stack up, you may discover how likely it is for golfers to choose your facility. Taking a lead from others is a fantastic way to incorporate tried and tested methods.

3. ASK MEMBERS & GUESTS
   Ask others who fit your target profile (e.g., parents) about how you could encourage more interest. You will also find out why the women and girls who have chosen your club have done so, allowing you to build on your strengths. Moreover, involving members in your club’s evolving culture will also help to bring about change in a more collaborative manner.

4. DON’T ASSUME
   Take care to find out what others think, as well as going through the process of reviewing your women and girls’ offer as objectively as possible. You may well be surprised by what you find.

UNDERSTAND YOUR TARGET AUDIENCE – GIRLS.

Understanding what women and girls want to achieve when investing time, money and energy into golf is critical for ensuring your operations, participation programmes and pathways are fit for purpose. The following are some characteristics that research tells us apply to women and girls in relation to sporting activity, and methods by which you may cater to them.

CHARACTERISTICS

- 75% of girls are conscious about their body image
  - Offer coaching in girls-only groups in a more private setting
  - Be flexible with clothing and allow girls to wear what they feel most comfortable in
  - Avoid sessions which put pressure on performance
  - Try not to single out members of the group to demonstrate

- Girls are far more likely to return if they are able to make friends quickly
  - Break the ice by performing proper introductions at the start of any activities involving girls who may be new for your club or facility
  - Allow time within sessions for social interaction
  - Explicitly ask your group what kind of experiences they would like to take part in, what they enjoy and what they don’t

- Adolescent girls drop out of sport at a quicker rate than boys
  - Encourage girls to bring their friends along to sessions
  - Allow time for socialising within the clubhouse
  - Use relatable role models within the club with whom your girls can identify to deliver coaching
  - Communicate the health benefits of golf to your group, especially among the older participants
UNDERSTAND YOUR TARGET AUDIENCE – WOMEN.

CHARACTERISTICS

Leisure time is at a premium so must be rewarding and help to achieve goals, such as catching up with friends, learning a new skill or helping to stay fit and healthy.

Often competition is of lesser importance amongst women than having fun socially.

Research shows that women who have little experience of golf clubs believe them to be stuffy, elitist and male-dominated.

Women are often responsible for childcare, so make decisions with family in mind.

Women prefer to learn at their own pace and in a safe environment among other beginners in which they can avoid embarrassment.

APPROACH

• Ensure your marketing materials include information about the mental and physical benefits of golf.
• Encourage would-be golfers to bring a friend.
• Schedule activities during weekends for women who are working full-time.
• Ensure your marketing materials include information about the mental and physical benefits of golf.
• Remember not everyone wants to compete.
• Structure coaching sessions to include ample time for socialising.
• Create introductory occasions which put socialising first and golf second (e.g. wine and nine).

CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE.

Consumer feedback tells us golf in its traditional form does not always appeal to a younger and more diverse audience. With greater demand for different kinds of golf clubs, think about how small changes could have a big impact.

SET UP FOR SUCCESS

Customer experience starts from the first contact someone has with your facility. This is as likely to take place on the internet as it is in person. Ensure all of your channels, from your club website and social media to the person who picks up calls, are projecting the image you want.

INFORM YOUR TEAM

Ensure all staff are familiar with the club’s approach and be prepared to receive and cater to new visitors. Take this one step further by discussing this approach with the membership. The #FOREeveryone assets are designed to allow you to start communicating upcoming changes to your membership, so put them to good use.

ENSURE A WARM WELCOME

A negative first experience could put new golfers off for life. Ensure there is always someone available to greet guests on arrival and show all that is great about your club. Any individual in a ‘first contact’ position, including via phone or email, should have necessary information on coaching, taster events and fees to hand.

CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE.

BE FLEXIBLE
Those new to golf are unlikely to understand its quirks, and women in particular prize flexibility. Consider if your club could become more flexible when it comes to dress codes, gender-specific playing times, no phones in the clubhouse, fee structures and members-only areas.

BE SOCIAL
Among the benefits of joining a golf club, women tend to list the opportunity to socialise highest. We also know the social aspects of golf to rank highly among girls. Create an atmosphere which promotes friendship and inclusivity over competition, and involve current members in activity involving beginners wherever possible.

FACILITY IMPROVEMENTS
We know that when families seek leisure activities, they consider the quality and variety of facilities. Priority parking, provision of a creche, play areas within sight of parents, family-based classes or classes for mums and guardians which run alongside junior classes, and even simple improvements like better maintained changing rooms, are important factors.

CLUB MANAGEMENT.

AIM FOR 50/50 SPLIT
Clubs which have an equal gender split in decision-making positions have a greater chance of understanding the preferences of a wider membership and guest demographic.

INVOLVE MALE MEMBERS AND OFFICIALS
Often, female club matters are reserved for the female members or Lady Captain. To drive real change in club mentality and culture, it is important to find ways of involving the male membership and club officials.

WORKING GROUP
Consider establishing a ‘Women and Girls’ working group with as wide a cross-section of members and club officials as possible to develop a cohesive strategy for attracting and retaining more women and girls.

BUILD A TEAM OF VOLUNTEERS
A consistent and co-ordinated drive towards gender balance cannot occur without volunteers to sustain the club’s mission. Plan for illness, holidays and volunteer apathy by continually integrating more individuals. Your national association can provide advice on volunteering and training.

MARKETING
Effective marketing will increase the impact of your work to increase female participation. Those responsible for your club marketing should be aware of key diary dates and events, and incorporate this into your club’s story-telling. See pages 37-43 for further marketing advice.

Clubs with greater equal gender representation at committee or board level are more likely to (whether consciously or not) develop a culture in which female participation is encouraged more successfully. Consider the following as a goal within your #FOREeveryone activity to see the greatest success.
This template can be used to conduct your SWOT analysis prior to making any formal changes.

STRENGTHS:

- Agree the commitments that will drive positive change within your club
- Discuss internally the best ways to combat these areas and create a plan
- Study each section to ascertain those areas at the club that can be improved
- Add all relevant Strengths (S), Weaknesses (W), Opportunities (O) and Threats (T)

OPPORTUNITIES:

- A questionnaire for joining, playing, and leaving a club, and allows strengths and weaknesses.
- More about your strengths
- Member questionnaires are an invaluable tool in helping
- Taking part in surveys or focus groups will help you understand
- Questionnaire
- The Club Environment Experience

THREATS:

- The following document has been designed to help individual golf clubs assess
- The club is active in communicating opportunities for new members
- The golf club takes care to integrate new members

COACHING AND PARTICIPATION.

Creating opportunities for women and girls to learn in bespoke scenarios has proven to be a successful way to first experience the sport. Creating a strategy which carefully plots out golfers’ first steps on the participation pathway as part of your #FOREeveryone activity could result in lifelong love for the sport.

TASTER SESSIONS
Schedule and market opportunities for women and girls to try golf in a free of charge and accessible way. Taster sessions can attract a new audience without asking them to commit from the offset.

OPEN DAYS
Open Days allow the community to see you as a welcoming and accessible facility. Give free access to club facilities and schedule fun golf and non-golf activities. Open days for schools can be arranged with Active Schools Co-Ordinators.

MARKETABLE EVENTS
Being creative in establishing events for beginners could generate greater interest than traditional coaching. Consider how promoting Mother/Father & Daughter coaching, Nine and Wine occasions, 5-Day Crash Courses or Summer Camps may appeal more appealing. See page 43 or assets to help market taster sessions, open days and other events.

MEET & GREET
As you raise awareness, interested parties may require further encouragement before enquiring. Promoting the opportunity for guests to come along to a regular ‘Meet and Greet’ may provide impetus to find out more.

FUN, FIRST AND FOREMOST
Any new golfer’s first experience of the sport should encourage them to have fun, first and foremost. Neither children nor adults who have yet to develop the dexterity to succeed at golf enjoy over exposure to its technical aspects.

INTRODUCTORY MEMBERSHIP
Committing to a full membership can be difficult for beginners taking first steps in golf. Providing options, such as introductory memberships, can reduce the perceived financial risk. Creating a reduced cost option over a longer period will allow the member to better integrate.

APRÈS GOLF
For some new participants, time spent off the golf course is as important as time on it. As well as coaching sessions, think about how you can introduce your guests to the club by providing post-coaching refreshments or social activities.

ENCOURAGE REFERRALS
Those already connected to the club (members, parents, siblings, partners) should be your first port of call to generate interest in introductory sessions. Not only is this direct form of marketing cost effective, it allows you to speak to an audience already aware of your product.

BUDDY PROGRAMME
For those who do take the first step on your participation pathway, integration into club life could be key. Speak to your members about establishing a buddy system.
COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT.

Making links with local community groups is a great way to target a large number of potential participants at the same time. Speaking to and getting involved in the community will raise the profile of the club and put you in mind for future visits and potential enquiries about participation.

KNOWN COMMUNITY GROUPS AND CHARITIES

Creating relationships with local groups could be a direct route to attract new female members. Communicate to the local offices of charities your club may have raised money for, ask members if they have contact with community groups and speak to large employers in the area.

COMMUNITY OCCASIONS

Are there events in the local area which drive high footfall? If so, can your club or facility be represented? Exhibiting at annual fetes, coffee mornings, bake sales or any other occasions could put you in front of interested individuals.

SCHOOLS

Take to the internet to research which groups are active in your area. There may be organisations with local business institutions. Major employers and local Chambers of Commerce could be represented? Exhibiting at annual fetes, coffee mornings, bake sales or any other occasions could put you in front of interested individuals.

VISITING GROUPS

Find out how golf could be incorporated into the curriculum with your help. Your Active Schools Co-Ordinator can offer advice, which could generate a pathway for young girls which starts in primary school. Teachers may also become interested.

THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY

You may have groups which use your club for meetings. Advise them of your taster sessions or coaching programme and consider creating offers to encourage them to participate.

EMBRACE THE UNKNOWN

It’s no secret that business is best done on the golf course, so why not try to make connections with local business institutions. Major employers and local Chambers of Commerce could be looking for a setting to host their next meeting.

THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY

Take to the internet to research which groups are active in your area. There may be organisations with a high number of female employees or users: mothers and toddlers, sports clubs, dance clubs, Girl Guides, universities and colleges, Women’s Institutes, dieting organisations, church groups, etc.

WORKING TOGETHER FOR JOY IN JORDAN.

Growing women and girls’ golf is a global quest. If Dubai and Qatar are perhaps most synonymous with golf in the Middle East, Jordan is making its mark too.

Since opening in October 2016, Ayla Golf Club – the country’s first all-grass championship course – has thrived to grow the sport in Jordan, supporting all ages and genders.

Working in tandem with the Jordan Golf Federation (JGF), the Greg Norman-designed venue in the southern city of Aqaba has worked hard to engrain itself into the local community.

WHAT HAS BEEN THE KEY FOCUS?

• A golf in schools programme started in 2018 using short golf equipment and giving more than 2,000 children the chance to try golf in school, including more than 1,200 girls (lead by JGF technical adviser Amer Radee)

• At Ayla GC, a weekly ‘Ladies Golf & Coffee Morning’ is hosted on a Thursday with Chris Dodd, Head Golf Professional. The lessons cover all skills required for golf, with one lesson each month on-course, either on the Championship or Academy 9-hole Par 3

• Junior girls attend weekly ‘Junior Roll-up’ sessions every Wednesday and Saturday evening, hosted by Walid Abu Elsamid, Junior Development Coach

“We are all making progress. The future is bright,” Chris Dodd

Significantly, in April 2019, Ayla GC became the first venue in the Middle East to commit to the Women in Golf Charter, signed ahead of the staging of the Jordan Mixed Open, Ladies European Tour, Challenge Tour and Staysure Tour’s mixed event.

“This historic event helped promote a spike in ladies’ interest domestically. For a period after the event took place, national women and Jordan gained worldwide exposure,” notes Dodd.

WHAT HAVE BEEN THE SUCCESSES?

• Both the Ayla Oasis Development Company and JGF have contributed to free golf learning classes on a weekly basis for local community juniors

• The JGF national team based in Amman (four-hour car journey to Aqaba) make monthly visits for up to 40 juniors (boys and girls) to experience a weekend of golf at Ayla GC

• Ayla GC and JGF member Majd Najada, who first took up golf in 2016 utilising the ‘Ladies Golf & Coffee Morning’ now represents the Jordan national team. In 2019, Najada succeeded in winning the ladies’ category in the national amateur event, the Jordan Open

• The JGF are the only Arabic Federation to teach The R&A Rules School in Jordan, including three Jordanian women taking Level 1/2

“We also have a very active lady on our board of directors in the Jordan Golf Federation, Asli Dow, in charge of women’s affairs and Arab Federation President of the JGF. We are also one of the few Arab federations who have ladies’ representation in Women’s Pro-Arabic championships.”

Dodd adds: “While we still have a long way to go before a clear core group of national lady and girls is established in Jordan, we are all making progress. The future is bright.”
WHAT'S THE MESSAGE?

Adopting modern marketing methods will allow your club to speak to its target audience with greater accuracy, minimal wastage and in a cost-effective manner. A connected approach across all marketing channels will enhance exposure as you move into the external communications phase of your activity. You do not need to be a marketing whizz to ensure your website, social media, club emails, advertising and PR tell a corresponding story.

Marketing begins with an understanding of who your audience is. For women and girls, the messages we are looking to promote are very different. Having a clear understanding of which messages may resonate with your target audience is paramount before undertaking marketing activity.

SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING.

When we consider women are typically more active than men, and social media is now a part of growing up, its importance is obvious. Applying a few simple tips can help put you on your way to social success.

1. BE CONSISTENT
   - Keep your posting regular (ideally once a day for all channels) and of a consistently high quality in captions, images and video.
   - Tailor your posts by channel.

2. TAILOR YOUR POSTS
   - The best ideas are rarely new, so pay close attention to what other clubs or organisations you look up to in other sectors are doing for inspiration.
   - If one social channel is most successful, use it to draw attention to others. Always link to stories or new info posted on your website to drive traffic there.

3. HOLD THE HARD SELL
   - Instagram is all about inspirational images, Twitter is great for reacting in the moment, while Facebook is great for video and longer form storytelling.
   - Do not be compelled to feel like you are selling something. Be fun, inspirational or educational first, and let your product sell itself.

4. JOIN THE CONVERSATION
   - Positive responses to other conversations are a great way to increase engagement. It won’t be central to your strategy, but don’t be afraid to get conversational.

GIRLS

- SOCIAL
  - Have fun with friends both on and off the golf course
- ROLE MODELS
  - Follow in the footsteps of Georgia Hall, Leona Maguire, Carly Booth or Amy Boulden
- FLEXIBILITY
  - Wear what makes you feel comfortable
- EXPERIENCE
  - You don’t have to have experience to enjoy golf

HEALTH

- EXPERIENCE
  - Golf can be enjoyed by all ages and physical abilities, with no experience necessary to try it
- FLEXIBILITY
  - Golf can be played in shorter forms, catering to the busy lifestyle of the modern woman
- SELF-IMPROVEMENT
  - Try a new challenge

FAMILY

- FLEXIBILITY
  - Golf can be enjoyed by the whole family together
- SELF-IMPROVEMENT
  - Spend time outdoors gaining an appreciation for nature and respect for fellow competitors

WOMEN

- SOCIAL
  - Meet like-minded individuals and enjoy a new social life both on and off the course
- ROLE MODELS
  - Follow in the footsteps of Georgia Hall, Leona Maguire, Carly Booth or Amy Boulden
- FLEXIBILITY
  - Golf can be enjoyed by the whole family together
- SELF-IMPROVEMENT
  - Try a new challenge
WEBSITE AND EMAIL.

CLUB WEBSITE
Your website is your shop window. It doesn’t need to tell the consumer everything, but it has to grab their attention. A well-functioning website is critical. The rule of thumb should be allowing the consumer to buy your product in no more than 6 or 7 clicks. Make it easy for people to find relevant information by creating a Women and Girls section, which clearly details information such as how to get involved, coaching times, contact information, details on equipment and clothing and cost.

EMAIL MARKETING
Email marketing is a great way to deliver club news to members. Resist the urge to include lots of information and instead send regular emails focusing on the 1-3 most important topics of the week, giving each one a strong call to action (usually leading people to your website) and using your very best imagery. Your email marketing is only as strong as your database, so do everything you can to encourage members to opt-in to these communications. You can then speak to them en masse about women and girls opportunities.

ADVERTISING AND PR.

ADVERTISING
Whether we are talking social media advertising, local newspapers or national magazines, the simple rule of advertising is ‘Return of Investment’. Use the experience your club has from the past to determine best approach for the future. If your advertising activity is not driving enquiries, consider another approach.

PR & COMMUNICATIONS
Your good work deserves attention! Communicate success stories, coaching programmes, money-saving offers and general club news through your owned channels but also by sending simple information to your local newspapers, radio stations, golf magazines and relevant influencers. Always remember, a strong image goes a long way! Invite journalists from local media sources to your club for a game of golf or lunch to build relationships and provide you with a valuable contact when you have news worth shouting about.
DIRECT, OOH AND WORD OF MOUTH.

DIRECT MARKETING
It may not be high-tech, but direct marketing (usually meaning marketing via mail) still has its place. Try to eliminate wastage by targeting addresses which may be more likely to show interest (e.g. areas with a high volume of young families) and ensure your message and design is clear and has a strong call to action.

OUT OF HOME MARKETING (OOH)
Some Out of Home marketing solutions are more accessible to golf clubs than others, including placing posters into local businesses or placing creative upon billboards, bus shelters and street furniture. Up front costs can be higher but tactical placement may mean your message being seen by thousands of passers-by.

WORD OF MOUTH
The oldest and still the most impactful form of marketing – word of mouth! Ask your members to tell their friends, families and workmates, and tell your own contacts whenever you get the chance. The opinions of acquaintances are still more trusted than any other form of communication.

CLUB MARKETING RESOURCES.
Click on the download links below to access resources which will allow you to connect your marketing to #FOREeveryone.

Suggested use: Advertising assets allowing you to promote your women’s and girls opportunities when the time is right.
SUGGESTED ACTIVITY TIMELINE.

Every club or facility’s individual offer will be unique but, by using this timeline guidance, we believe venues will find success while building their own #FOREeveryone activity.

It may take you more or less time than suggested in this week-by-week plan, but you should be able to achieve support for your approach among members and attract new female golfers if you follow these steps.

Do remember that this plan is designed to integrate the idea of change with your board, members and staff prior to change taking place. Ensuring all parties are aware and supportive in the first instance is the best way to plan for success.

It will not happen overnight, so do start with your planning early and try to make consistent progress bringing in some of the considerations presented within this toolkit.

Good luck!
#FOREeveryone CAMPAIGN TIMELINE.

PLANNING PHASE

WEEK 1
- Read the toolkit
- Register your interest in signing up to The Women in Golf Charter
- Review the available assets within the Women and Girls Resource Portal

WEEK 2

SUPPORT FROM THE R&A

We want to ensure all signatories have the support they require when it comes to rolling out their own #FOREeveryone activity. The R&A will help by:

1. Leading the promotion of the #FOREeveryone campaign across GB&I, inclusive of all club activity with a national, centralised approach
2. Working with R&A Patrons and other stakeholders across the golf industry to show their support for the campaign
3. Continuing to work with clubs to communicate success stories and new case studies via the portal, The R&A social channels and externally
4. Providing updated and new assets via the Resource Portal, ensuring accessibility through club and facility feedback
5. Working with clubs and influencers to further explain the objectives of the campaign to golfing and non-golfing audiences
6. Conducting activations at R&A owned events in the future to engage with golfing audiences and drive interest in playing golf
EXTERNAL COMMUNICATIONS.

Once change has started to take effect within your club, to the point you feel the welcome you offer and the conditions for newcomers would encourage them to stay with you, you may want to start thinking about external promotions.

The following will allow you to engage with an external audience and invite them to become part of your participation programme.

- Begin using the external assets provided to speak to lapsed and non-golfers. As mentioned in the Participation Programme Step-by-Step, it is suggested that Taster Sessions for women and girls are the first activities scheduled to attract a new audience to take a first step into the participation pathway. Open Days and other Marketable Events should be considered at the right time for you.
- Ask your members if they have any friends or family who would be interested in joining your participation programme using the Member Referral Assets.
- Use the Buddy Programme Recruitment Assets to find members to assist you in making newcomers feel at home.
- Start conducting community outreach in order to recruit local participants using these assets.
- If it’s right for you, use the Advertising Assets in order to promote the opportunities you are creating for lapsed and non-golfers.

GET IN TOUCH.

You will be able to access the Women in Golf Charter Resource Portal and many of the resources mentioned within this toolkit by clicking on the links provided.

These will help you to connect into our campaign, build your own #FOREeveryone activity and to start making changes within your own club or facility.

We also want to hear any thoughts you may have about how we can continue to support the growth of women and girls golf. #FOREeveryone is designed to be a continued supporting mechanism for clubs in order to meet their long term goals.
